no2-3m Cor. 11th and Pa. ave. n. w. THE SUPERIOR DURABILITY OF THE HAMMOND.

The average life of the type-bar machine in constant use is two years; thereafter no attempts are made at repairs, but a new machine is exchanged for the old one.

The carriest Hammonds have now been in constant use for 6 years, and seem capable of wearing a lifetime. All the parts are attached to a solid bed-plate, and, being interchanceable, can be replaced when worn. Thus the period of usefulness of the Hammond is bounded only by the destruction of its solid steel foundation. The outside limit of remodeling a worn Hammond with a new type wheel, making it practically a new machine, is but $20.

The superiority of the Hammond in speed, neat and attractive work and durability is clearly evidenced by the leading operators forsaking the old-style machines and availing themselves of the pre-eminent advantages offered by the Hammond. Why not drop in and look over this machine for yourself? We are always pleased to exhibit it.

tion to the Commissioners.

The inmates of the work house—at least, 140 of them—have added their names to a petition against the issuance of any more liquor licenses. The document itself, which was presented today, is an interesting paper, and reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned, citizens of the United States, temporarily residing in the Washington City Asylum, commonly called the work house, would respectfully but most earnestly pray your honors not to grant any more liquor li-

The Mills men are saying but little today as The Mills men are saying but little today as to prospects, and figures are not yet being freely quoted, but there is an appearance of confiderce which encourages those who support the Texan, but who are not on the inside. The knowing ones are decidedly hopeful as to Pennsylvania. Tomorrow night there will be a caucus of Pennsylvania democratic Representatives, and as Mutchler, who is a Mills man, has a great deal of influence with the delegation it is believed that the solid vote of the state may be swung for Mills.

the national convention are pouring into the long experience.

A NEW MAN'S EXPERIENCE.

The experience of one gentleman vesterday gives a fair idea of the situation on the surface to see that such newspapers as will have a corps of representatives on the ground to make detailed reports are well provided for. It would be well for such papers to send in their applications early, stating the kind and extent of accommodations required. Many of them have already done sc, but others have not. These applications will be filed and the requests com-
